Through the use of symbolism and unconventional methods of drawing, I communicate intimate ideas of our place in the universe while examining and asking myself difficult questions about the human condition and the mechanisms that intervene in our reality. The use of geometric shapes as symbols throughout time and space coupled with the human presence is an integral part of my process, as it allows me to explore the feats established by the Self in its attempts to balance perception and reality on a micro and macro scale.

Lately, my focus and direction has been to develop new symbols as well as creating three-dimensional mechanisms that produce two-dimensional works of art through the use of electronics, sound, gravity, and interaction.
